

Workplace Technology™ Personal Video Conference Kit

In our increasingly global world, organizations and businesses thrive via the connections they make. Employees aren't limited to working with people that they can meet with in person. Whether your employees need to connect with colleagues, vendors, or clients in another office down the street or around the world, provide them with the tools they need to ensure a professional experience for all.

Our personal video conference kit can easily be paired with your existing laptop or desktop computer via a simple USB connection. The kits provide a standard, simple and quality solution for a more professional and consistent audio/video experience when employees use Unified Communications platforms such as Zoom, Teams, WebEx, etc. regardless of where they take the call. With multiple options available, you can decide what solutions will best support your employees.
