

Rise is a center of social support in central NJ that provides services and facilitates community partnership through their award-winning thrift store, food pantry and multiple social services.

Since 1992, Rise was located on the second floor of a building over a restaurant and phone store in approximately 1,100sf. Their space was furnished with donated items, many of which were well past their useful lifecycle.

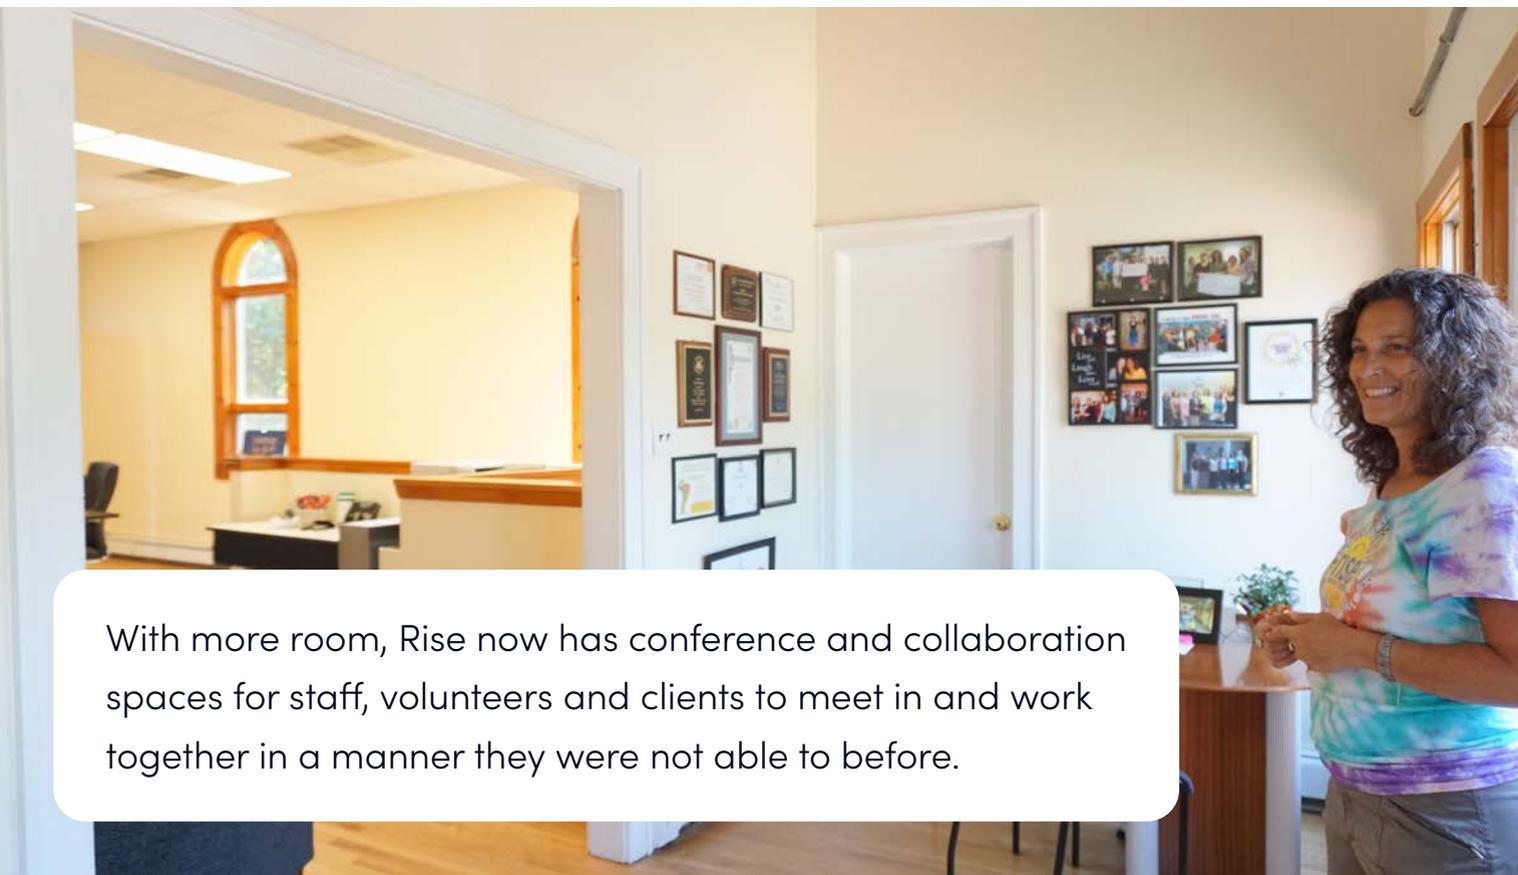

In 2021, Rise relocated to their new space, a building originally built as a synagogue in the 1930's and most recently used as a Union Hall for Local 94 of IBEW. The space was once again furnished with donated items. Only this time, most of the furniture was donated by local corporate sponsor, Amicus Therapeutics. Rather than dispose of furniture that would no longer be used when relocating their offices in 2020, Amicus turned to dancker, their interior solutions provider, to store select furniture for Rise to use when their new space was ready.

Staff and volunteer work areas are both comfortable and functional with privacy, storage and ergonomic features. Clients are welcomed into open and airy spaces that offer them a sense of dignity and support as they seek help.

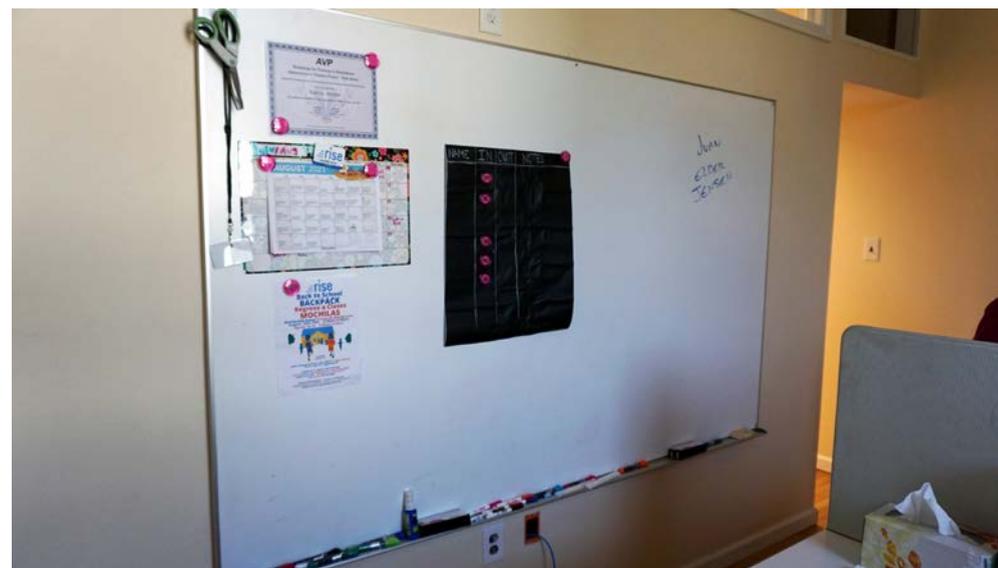

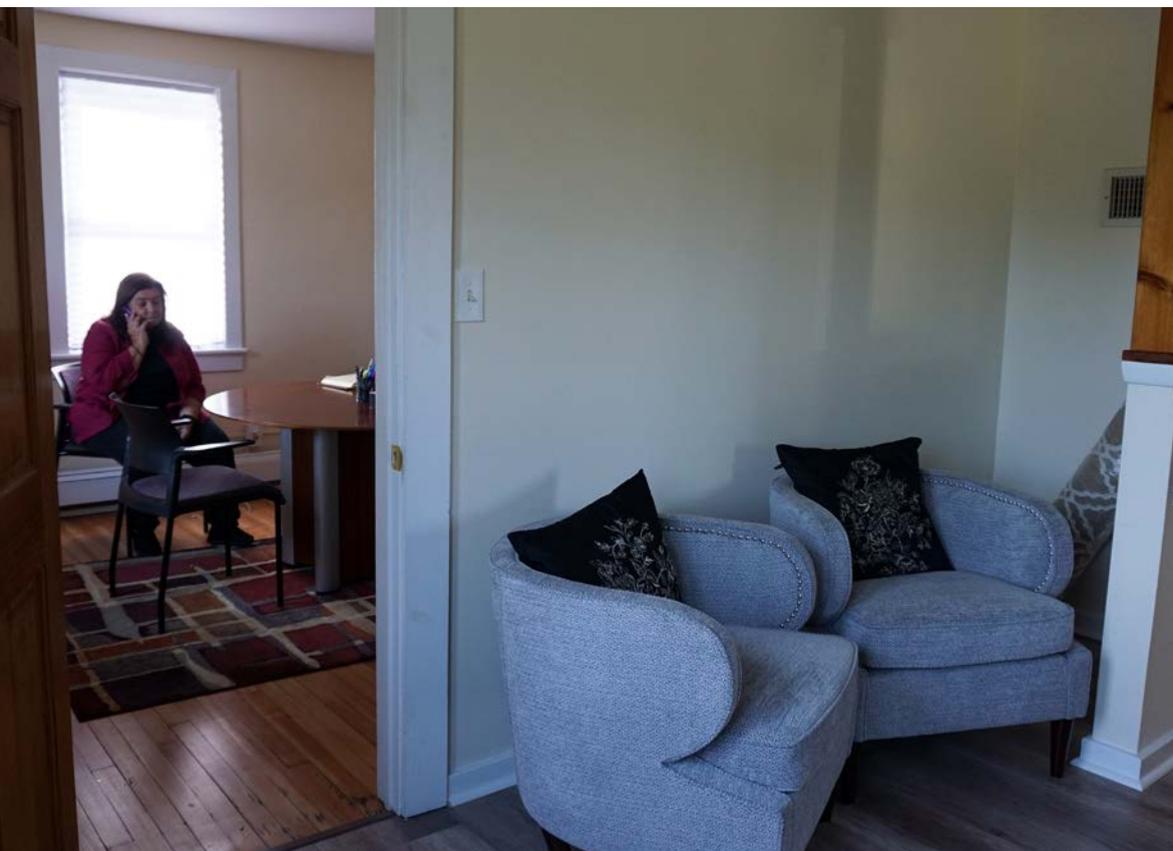

With more room, Rise now has conference and collaboration spaces for staff, volunteers and clients to meet in and work together in a manner they were not able to before.

Staff work areas now include ergonomic chairs, height adjustable desks, ample storage, a variety of settings, and worktools like white boards to help them work better and focus on their mission to serve clients and the community.

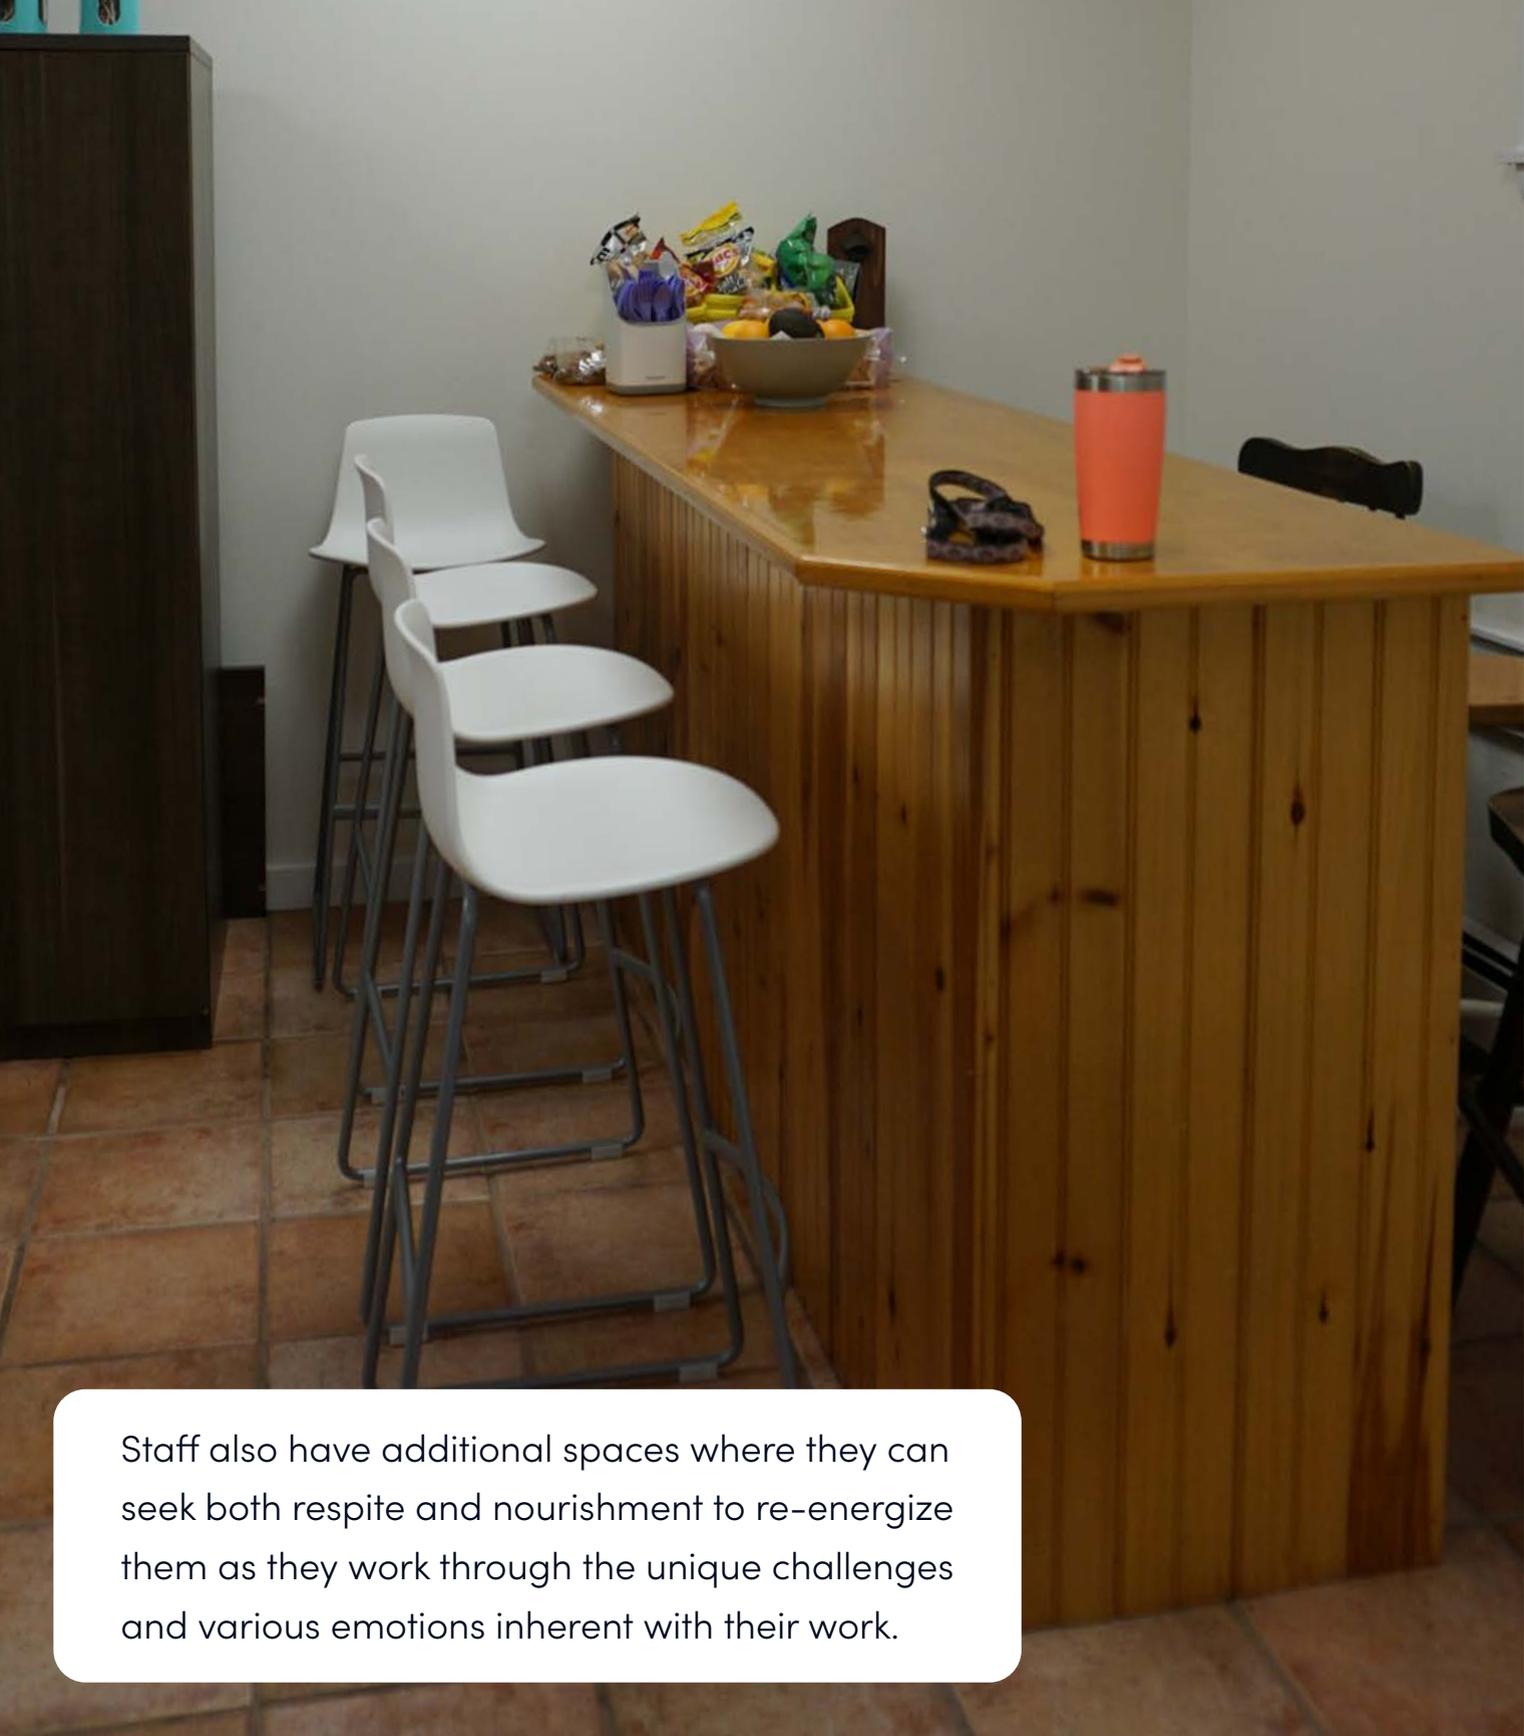

With plenty of natural light, the work space includes many plants and inspirational artwork created by the children served by Rise.

Rise has a separate, more private area to support the various groups they serve. A different entrance leads to an area with more comfortable furniture and plenty of room for children to also feel supported and safe.

Furnishings are a combination of items donated by Amicus and other champions of Rise.

Staff also have additional spaces where they can seek both respite and nourishment to re-energize them as they work through the unique challenges and various emotions inherent with their work.

Much of the artwork featured throughout the space has been created by children who attend Rise's Summer Camp. A collaboration of talent, background and frames are usually painted by younger children, while older children complete the detailed artwork.

dancker Team included: Dennis Summers, Michael Pfitzner, Roy Sullivan, John Cella + Todd Maryott

In collaboration with the dedicated team at Rise, a group of dancker's Logistics team spent time listening to what the Rise team needed and hoped to accomplish with their new space. By understanding the assets donated and space they were moving into, we helped them to plan the space to make everything work. Where possible, our team supplemented Rise's needs with other items we had available. At install, we were also able to make changes and adjustments to products as required to better support their ways of working. Our team also removed all items no longer needed for proper disposal.
