Form + Function

Curved lines and soft edges ruled this year. With the need for power to be more convenient but concealed, manufacturers found new ways to be creative with wire management. Flexibility is still important but now has a more polished look.

Color Works

Our world is infused with different hues, tones, and intensities that influence us. Color is vital to the human experience, and to place. Warmer neutrals evoke feelings of comfort. From Pedrali's oval fluted wood table to Extremis' Kosmos sofa in sage, we saw these warm tones all over the Mart.

Curves For Days

Colors, shapes, and patterns that incorporate design principles around natural and outdoor elements can subliminally help to create a greater sense of wellbeing. This impacts the colors we're drawn to, but also the finishes we prefer. Andreu World's Bolete Lounge BIO made a lasting impact at Neocon and beyond.

Connecting the Dots

Successful hybrid collaboration requires thinking like a movie director as much as a set designer. Lights, camera, audio, content. Where should cameras be mounted for the most natural eye-to-eye contact? How many speakers and microphones do you need? Where can cords be nested to make them easy to access but still keep them out of the way?

Sustainable Design

Sustainability is not a trend — it's a concerted effort and key design component. Clients want to play a role in stewarding the environment by creating a space with healthy material choices for the earth. They care about how materials and furniture are manufactured.
